

Module- 3 (Adjustment- Range of Reactions)

After going through this module you should be able to answer-

1. Differentiate among direct overt attack, substitute reactions, borderline defensive reactions, socially unacceptable overt reactions, psychosomatic and neurotic reactions and psychotic reactions. Elaborate their significance to human adjustment process
2. Elaborate borderline defensive reactions citing suitable examples.
3. Differentiate between socially acceptable substitute reactions and socially unacceptable overt reactions citing suitable example.
4. Does the psychological and social interpretations and significance of human behaviour form a synthesis? Substantiate your answer with suitable examples.